There is no permanent and I feel just fine.

Press any key to begin, why would something go wrong?

Losing is easy, winning is harder. In this game, although it's impossible to achieve a "technical" or "tangible" victory you will have the immense satisfaction of having correctly guessed a word, which in and of itself is a rich, warm experience.

Here are some hints since they're definitely on to us:

1. The four letter word is the type of will we claim to have.
2. The five letter word is an adjective describing a common emotional state for a human to experience when contemplating death.
3. The six letter word is an grand illusion which humans create and destroy entire civilizations trying to attain.
4. The seven letter word is what mainstream society calls all this thinking outside the box, thinking about real things!
